Economic Conditions in Austria

- Following an estimated 2.7% increase in GDP for 2018 as a whole, the slowdown in the Austrian economy is clearly visible. Nevertheless GDP growth of 1.9% will still be just above potential. A strong weakening of the economy in the USA will ultimately also confront the domestic export industry with further increasing challenges. We expect a decline in economic growth in Austria in 2020 to only 1.5%.
- After averaging 2% in 2018, we expect inflation to amount to 2% in 2019 as well. Both the low oil price and the slower economy due to demand will cause inflation to fall slightly to an average of 1.8% in 2020.
- In the first eleven months of the year, tax revenues increased by 4% y/y. Both revenues from income tax and corporate tax were above budget. The decrease of total public debt as a percentage of GDP will continue 2019/2020.

Austrian Real Estate Market

Overview

Real Estate Market Austria

- 2018 is expected to become again a very strong year in commercial real estate in Austria. The investments in 2017 with nearly € 5 bn significantly outperformed the record year 2015. The first half year of 2018 started somewhat weaker; due to a lack of appropriate offer, the record volume of the previous year will not be reached until year-end 2018. With about 60% of all investments in the first half of 2018, office properties were the most important asset category with strong demand and a limited offer having led to declining yields in all office locations.
- The Austrian real estate market has the well-earned reputation as a relatively stable market. Real estate analyst IPD/MSCI annually analyses an Austrian portfolio consisting of office, retail, residential, logistics and other properties. Though annual total return has never achieved double digit growth since the beginning of the analysis, it has also never dropped into negative growth. Even in the crisis years 2008/2009, annual total return amounted to around 4%.
- Residential real estate prices in Vienna have risen considerably in recent years. Nevertheless, price increases slowed down in the first half of 2018. Price development in Austria (excluding Vienna) develops more robustly than in the capital.

- After a consolidation at the end of 2017, the prices in Vienna increased once more in the first half of 2018. In the second quarter of 2018, prices rose continuously by approx. 2%. The forecast for the whole year 2018 is an increase of approx. 4.25%.
- In comparison, prices in Austria (excl. Vienna) with 2.8 % since the end of 2017 have shown a stronger development than in Vienna.

- Real estate remains attractive for investors looking for yield.
- As long as property investments offer higher yields than alternatives such as government bonds, demand for real estate will remain high.

- Main differences in the current version are:
 - German law also allows collateral assets from non-European countries
 - German law includes compulsory NPV-matching, whereas in Austria a voluntary commitment is foreseen to be stipulated in the articles of association. Bank Austria, accordingly, included such clause in its articles of association
